

ABSTRACT

The present invention is related to a multifunctional tridimensional combined ecological architecture having one or more buildings and additional structures such as ecological structures for organisms, natural ecological structures, and activity places for habitants, and various combinations thereof. The tridimensional combined green-building may contain green villages, green areas, and green science centers and include tridimensional walls, tridimensional rivers, and tridimensional bridges which connect, or go between, the various buildings.